WOMEN SERVE AS STRETCHER BEARERS FOR RUSSIAN WOUNDED

PICTURE TAKEN BY DR. NEWTON, SHOWING WOMEN TAKING INJURED SOLDIERS INTO RED CROSS HOSPITAL AT KIEF, RUSSIA.

WOMEN OF RUSSIA CARRY STRETCHERS

Heroic Work Shown in Views Brought Home by Dr. Newton.

ALL OF THE ARMY NURSES ARE TRAINED THOROUGHLY

Interesting Pictures Taken in Lemberg Before Muscovites Gave Way to the Austrians.

Several hundred photographs illustrating various phases of the war in Europe were brought to this country by Dr. Philip Newton, formerly a hospital physician of this city, who arrived in New York New Year day aboard the Baltic. Dr. Newton, who now holds a commission of brigadier general in the medical branch of the Russian army, is in Washington, having been granted a leave of absence to make a hurried trip to this country before starting to hospital again in February with his division, which is now stationed at Petrograd.

Among the assortment of photographs is one which demonstrates the patriotism of the Russian of the poorer classes. It shows women serving as stretcher bearers at the American hospital at Kief. Dr. Newton and Dr. Edward H. Egbert, also of this city, were jointly in charge of this hospital.

School Becomes a Hospital.
"The hospital was located in what up to the outbreak of hostilities was the Polytechnic Institute of Kief," said Dr. Newton, in explaining the views. "There was room for about 2,000 beds, but we only had about 700. The women carried the wounded soldiers on stretchers from the nearest street car line, a distance of about two squares. This they did in all kinds of weather, in summer and in the bitterest cold winter. They volunteered their services, and they were good workers."

Dr. Newton brought with him other pictures showing how the women of Russia are aiding in the great struggle. He said that the volunteer nurses to be found in the hospitals represent the best of Russian womanhood. They are not permitted to engage in hospital work until they have taken a six-week training course and have been vouched for by one of five great nursing societies of the country.

THE RUSSIANS IN LEMBERG.

Of greatest interest among Dr. Newton's pictures, all of which he photographed himself, are several showing scenes during the occupancy of the city of Lemberg, in Austria, by Russian troops.

"The soldiers were shouting 'On to Budapest!' when I took those pictures," said Dr. Newton. "They saw only victory before them. I had gone to Lemberg with a view of taking charge of an ambulance train which was to start for the Carpathians. I had made all my plans when the great drive by the Germans was started. I got out of Lemberg as soon as possible—about two days before the Russian troops left the city."

Dr. Newton said that when the Russians retreated across a stretch of country nothing of value was left for the Germans. Every building and field of grain was burned.

POLICEMAN IS SENTENCED.

Walter C. Allen Gets Six Months at Occoquan—Appeals Case.

Walter C. Allen, a policeman, convicted last month of a simple assault for striking with his fist a passenger on a street car at Georgia avenue and Girard street last July, was sentenced today by Chief Justice Covington to serve six months at Occoquan. Allen noted an appeal, and gave bail for $1,500.

In passing sentence, the chief justice scored the conduct of the defendant at the trial and declared that the government's testimony clearly placed the policeman at the scene of the encounter, and that there had been false swearing in the statements made concerning an alibi. The policeman and members of his family testified that he was at home at the time of the alleged assault and did not go to the scene until it was all over.

Attorney M. E. O'Brien represented the defendant.

Gasoline Bath Typhus Preventive.

LAREDO, Tex., January 5.—A gasoline bath has been adopted in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, as one of the preventives for introduction of typhus infection there. It is applied only to suspects of unusual personal untidiness. The recipient of this bath has his head shaved before being treated. Dr. Claude C. Pierce, special representative of the United States public health and marine hospital service, said today that, with proper precautions, he believed there was no need to fear a typhus epidemic along the border.

Last of Monitor's Crew Dies.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., January 5.—William Durst, said to be the sole survivor of the crew of the Monitor, which engaged the ironclad Merrimack in the historic battle in Hampton roads, died at his home here yesterday of pneumonia. He was seventy-six years old.

HINDERED IN ITS WORK BY THE LACK OF CLERKS

Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce Conditions Revealed by Dr. E. E. Pratt.

Additional clerical assistance is the most serious need of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, according to the annual report of Dr. E. E. Pratt, chief of the bureau, made public today. The service is constantly growing, he said, and while the number of employees in the field has been constantly increasing, the office force at Washington has actually shown a decrease.

"The statutory force," he said, "has been supplemented to a minor extent by the appointment of some experts and temporary employees paid out of the special lump-sum appropriations providing for such employment. The use of special appropriations for salaries in Washington has been strictly limited to the very serious situation created by the European war, which, in correspondence on foreign trade, particularly with reference to Latin America, increased by leaps and bounds immediately after the outbreak of war, and, urgent as was the need of our manufacturers and exporters, could not otherwise be handled. As it was, the work piled up and the correspondence and filing got far behind."

Much Overtime Contributed.

"Throughout the year a large amount of overtime has been contributed by the employees of the bureau. It is only by this means that the inadequate staff is able to keep pace with the accumulation of work which must absolutely be taken care of."

Plans for reorganization of the bureau are outlined in the report. Under the first assistant chief of the bureau it is intended to place the chief clerk's office, with the various subsidiary sections, and three entirely new divisions, namely, division of field agents, division of branch offices and division of commercial attaches. Under the second assistant chief are to be placed the editorial division, Latin American section, division of statistics, division of foreign tariffs, cost of production division, research section and a division which, Dr. Pratt says, "it is hoped will be created, the internal commerce division. This plan, it will be readily seen, segregates each part of the work and puts each division under a responsible head. This plan would make the organization considerably more effective."

Mississippi Solons Meet.

JACKSON, Miss., January 5.—The Mississippi legislature convened at noon yesterday for its biennial session of ninety days. The senate was called to order by Lieut. Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo, who will preside until January 18, when he will be inaugurated governor, having been elected in November. M. S. Connor was elected speaker of the house on the fourth ballot.

REBEL OUTBREAK IN HAITI.

American Marines at Port au Prince Kill One in Skirmish.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, January 5.—A revolutionary outbreak occurred at 2 o'clock this morning at Port au Prince. The force of American marines maintained in this city was attacked. One of the rebels was killed by the Americans, who suffered no losses.

Several groups of insurgents moved on Grand Prevot and ran through the streets discharging rifles. The Americans met them and they were rapidly dispersed. The outbreak is generally condemned, and has been characterized as a piece of folly.

MASSACRED BY VILLA MEN.

All Makes of Village Over Fifteen Are Put to the Sword.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., January 4.—Persons arriving here from the interior of Sonora confirm reports of a massacre a few weeks ago of male residents of San Pedro de la Cueva. All men over fifteen years old were killed, they said, by the Villa soldiers before the latter retreated into the state of Chihuahua. Among those killed, it was said, was Father Ramon Flores, who was shot when he interceded with Gen. Villa on behalf of the men.

URGES WOMEN'S CLUBS TO BE MORE EFFICIENT

Mrs. Pennybacker, President of General Federation, Also Pleads for Assistance for Immigrants.

Points to Evil of Trying to Arraign the Sexes One Against the Other.

"I sometimes wonder what awful shock we'll need to strike from us this great mantle of conceit in which we Americans have wrapped ourselves and which makes us believe that we are the elect of God."

So said Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in an address under the auspices of the local federation at a meeting in Woodward & Lothrop's auditorium yesterday afternoon. The remark came as the climax in an address in which Mrs. Pennybacker had urged her auditors not to rest on their laurels, but to be awake and doing.

She gave many concrete examples of ways in which the club women of America might become more useful citizens; gave advice as to the best means of preserving harmony and club loyalty, and held out visions for the future of the general federation.

One of the most urgent pleas made by Mrs. Pennybacker was regarding the need of closer friendship between the women of this country and the women of sister republics, and for the need of assisting the immigrant to this land to become a good and useful citizen. "Immigrants don't want money," she said, "they want a touch of human sympathy." She paid a tribute to the Jewish people, saying that always, when immigrant Jewish families landed, there was a delegation on hand to meet and help them.

The Need for Efficiency.

Here are some of the thoughts expressed by Mrs. Pennybacker: "Let us ask ourselves this question: 'Are you efficient?' The rule of today is efficiency. We need to study more before we start to work. Many reforms have even been known to petition city councils and state legislatures for the passage of laws which had already been on the statute books for years."

"Don't let us rush into print until we have actually something to tell. Let us undertake less and accomplish more. We pride ourselves upon our democracy. Let us not neglect those whom, for lack of a better word, we call the 'lower class,' but neither let us neglect those in the high places. Let us not forget that Athens had a democracy except for her slave population."

"There are certain women who try to arraign the sexes one against the other. This is not as God intended it. He made man and woman. Let us try, therefore, not to say, 'This is the man's task' and 'This is the woman's task,' but when we find work to do for the uplift of the home, for the improvement of housing conditions or for the betterment of humanity let us say this is the task of man and woman, and then work hand in hand, shoulder to shoulder and heart to heart in accomplishing the task."

Sticking to a Good Cause.

"Don't drop a good cause simply because of a change in leaders. So many when they become the head of an organization say to themselves, 'I must do something to mark my regime; I must do something individualistic.' A leader should be great and wise and may go, but causes should continue straight toward their aim."

"The woman who continually receives and gives back nothing is a parasite. Do not repeat unpleasant things which may happen in your club. I think it is better to vote wrong once in a while than not to vote at all. Remember that it is not good enough for the development of the spinal column to be continually sitting on the fence. If you run for office and lose, lose cheerfully. In fact, unless you are certain you can lose cheerfully, do not run at all. This country loves a cheerful loser."

"One of the visions which I hold for the federation is that of youth coming more and more into service. Not that we would lose our good strong grandmothers, or our women of middle age, or our young girls, too. There is no danger so great in America today as the lack of solidarity in the home—between daughters and mother, between sons and father, between children and parents."

Asks Assistance for Immigrants.

Mrs. Pennybacker was followed by Anthony Camblint, United States commissioner of immigration, who supported Mrs. Pennybacker's plea for assistance for immigrants by clubwomen and promised the co-operation of his bureau in any work which might be undertaken along this line.

Mrs. Court F. Wood, president of the Washington Federation, presented Mrs. Pennybacker with a bouquet. Other speakers included the Marchioness of Aberdeen, who urged that if the question of the General Federation uniting with the International Council of Women was ever raised that the members should vote in favor of the proposition; Mrs. John B. Sneath, Mrs. John D. Johnson, Mrs. John B. Sherman, Mrs. William E. Andrews, all officers of the General Federation; Mrs. Francis Sanderson, president of the Maryland State Federation; and Miss Helen Norris Cummins, president of the Virginia State Federation. Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood delivered the invocation, and a group of Campfire Girls, headed by Miss Margaret Merrill, gave a demonstration. A reception followed the meeting.

FRANKFORT, Ky., January 5.—Enactment of a more adequate and stringent anti-trust act; enactment of a corrupt practices measure, in order that the people may know what amounts are spent by candidates and by campaign committees for the purpose of controlling elections," is advocated by Gov. The message largely was devoted to directing attention to democratic pre-election platform pledges, and urged their fulfillment.
